[redacted] the construction of a so-called Marshal Stalin wall to extend along the coast. [redacted] this to be propaganda without any foundation, since the only extensive coastal fortifications known are between Pillau and Gruener Ort [redacted] although there are some coastal batteries at Svinnemuende, the Stalin wall will probably consist mainly of a series of guard posts along the coast.

2. Naval bases.

Swineuende will reportedly become the main Polish naval base. It is, of course, already equipped with coastal batteries and bunkers. Ac-
[redacted] Swineuende has served for a long time as a base for light Polish naval craft which the harbor is well equipped to handle. Linau, Libau and Lemel have become submarine bases, the total number of submarines in the Baltic being estimated at 150.*

3. V-leapon Bases.

Improved types of V-weapons are being manufactured at Peenemuende. A testing station for these missiles is said to exist at Insteburg, East Prussia. A V-weapon firing base exists near Kolberg. ***

4. Russian Units on Auegen Island.

many Russian soldiers have recently been observed on Ruegen Island, particularly in Stubbenkammer. The bathing resorts have been set aside for the Russians, and the area around Jochow is reported to have been declared off-limits to the population. 150,000 Soviet troops are alleged to be concentrated in the Mecklenburg area for summer maneuvers.

 Comandante Lemel has previously been reported as a submarine base. Suitable equipment exists there from the wartime German base. Pillau served as an important German submarine training base largely because of the great depth of the water close to shore.

* [redacted] Dubai: A recent report stated that large concrete construction was taking place on the beach immediately west of Kolberg at Raikulu and that this area is sealed off.
